
Notes on Contributors

Ferdinand D. Dagmang is Full Professor in the Theology and Religious Education Department of De La Salle University-Manila, Philippines. He finished his Ph.D. in Religious Studies at Catholic University of Louvain in 1991 with his dissertation: Liberation and Ethics: A Study of the Latin American Liberation Ethics. He has published several articles and monographs on the subjects of ethics, sexuality, popular religion and culture. His current researches deal with the topics of Basic Ecclesial Communities, popular religion, ethics, sexuality, and the effects of structures/systems on theories and practices. His book The Predicaments of Intimacy and Solidarity: Capitalism and Impingements has been published in 2010.

Chrisylli Mitzi A. Ibaya is a graduate of Mass Communication at the University of the Philippines Cebu and has spent several years working in mainstream media. She was a news anchor and reporter of ABS-CBN, an editorial assistant and contributor at Sun*Star Cebu, a publisher of the Bohol Magazine, and a columnist and writer for the Bohol Chronicle. She is deeply involved in culture advocacy and policy, more recently as secretary of the Bohol Arts and Cultural Heritage (BACH) Council where she was involved in the drafting of the Bohol Arts and Cultural Heritage Code passed into law in 2008.

Juliet Tenshak is a Lecturer in the Department of English, University of Jos, Nigeria. She is presently, a PhD student at the University of Stirling in the U.K. from where she is writing up her thesis on Contemporary Nigerian fiction. Her major areas of teaching and research interests include African Literature, Contemporary Nigerian Fiction, and The Use of English on which she has written, presented and published various articles.

Olusola Ogunnubi has a PhD in Political Science from the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa and is currently a postdoctoral research fellow at the University of Zululand, South Africa. His research interests are in the geo-political architecture of regional powers, soft power, conflict transformation and African politics. He has also published articles in a number of journals including the South African Journal of International Affairs, Africa Review, Strategic Review for Southern Africa as well as Africa Insight.

Kudzai Goto is a PhD candidate in International Relations at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. Her research interests, as an aspiring academic, are particularly around keeping, building and enforcing peace in conflict torn areas in Africa.

LUMINA

An Inter-Disciplinary Research and Scholarly Journal of Holy Name University
Tagbilaran City, Bohol, Philippines

Roque Bongcac

Editor-in-Chief

Elizabeth Remedio, University of San Carlos

Jazmin Llana, De La Salle University - Manila

Angela Grace Bruno, Central Mindanao University

Virginia Yacapin, Xavier University - Ateneo de Cagayan

Daniel Franklin Pilario, Adamson University

Associate Editors

Michael Cañares, MSc

Managing Editor

Advisory Panel

Annalyn Salvador Amores, University of the Philippines-Baguio

Vasudha Dingra, Amity University, India

Jennifer Houghton, University of Kwazulu-Natal, South Africa

Tom Sanya, University of Cape Town, South Africa

David Goodwins, Coffey International Development, Australia

Arnil Paras, University of Asia and the Pacific, Philippines

Raimundo B. dos Santos Jr., Universidade Federal do Piaui, Brazil

Adiyanti Sutandyo Buchholz, Institut Teknologi Indonesia, Indonesia

Raghavan Suresh, Public Affairs Center, India

Keith Brown, Watson Institute for International Studies, Brown University, USA

LUMINA is a refereed, interdisciplinary, research and scholarly journal of Holy Name University, Tagbilaran City, published every October and March of each year by the HNU Publication Office. It publishes articles from the HNU academic community, alumni, and other scholars from the Philippines and other countries throughout the globe. Research and scholarly papers in the basic and applied sciences, viz: social, theological, philosophical, anthropological, natural and applied sciences, among others, and book reviews are accepted in this journal

LUMINA is a Latin word which means “light” or “illumination” – one which is indispensably needed by a person who is searching for something in a research.

LUMINA Editorial Board make it explicit that the accuracy of facts and/or quotations, opinions, findings, and conclusions are the sole responsibility of the respective authors and do not reflect the opinions and positions of the editors and Holy Name University as an academic institution.

For more information, please visit the website of Lumina at www.lumina.hnu.edu.ph and the website of Holy Name University at www.hnu.edu.ph.
